Course Description
Seeing is often treated as a strictly biological capacity, but visual culture studies holds that the operations of spectatorship—how we look, what we look at, what is hidden from view, how we see ourselves, and how we are seen—are socially and politically bound, shaped by power relations and cultural norms. Visual culture studies is a field of inquiry that looks critically at these practices of looking and conditions of visibility. This course offers an advanced introduction to this field, intended for upper-level undergraduate students.

This course will engage participants in the critical analysis of canonical and contemporary writings on visual culture, and it will provide opportunities to bring these writings to bear on a broad array of visual artifacts. It will also engage students in a diverse set of techniques of visual analysis. Participants will apply these theoretical lenses and interpretive techniques to the visual culture artifacts or phenomena of their choosing, and will produce their own works of visual culture analysis.

Additional Information
The weekly schedule of topics and readings can be found on D2L. Students are responsible for reading and following all course and university policies discussed in this outline.

Objectives of the Course
The objectives of this course are:
- To acquaint you with influential theories of visual culture that will be relevant to your advanced studies in communications, media studies, and related fields, and will (hopefully) inform your ways of seeing the world beyond your undergraduate degree;
- To engage you with scholarly debates and cultural discourses surrounding visual culture, both in the present day and in the past;
- To help you to develop robust capacities for the analysis of visual material; and
- To involve you directly in the practice of visual culture analysis, with writing assignments and activities that require you to interpret and critique visual materials.
and phenomena as well as intervene in scholarly and popular debates surrounding visual culture.

Readings
All required readings will be posted on D2L. Please be sure to bring the assigned readings with you to each class, whether on paper or digitally, as close reading will be an important part of this course and in-class assignments will often require you to make reference to the assigned readings.

An important note: all readings and dates listed on the course outline are subject to change—so please check D2L regularly for the most up-to-date version of the course schedule.

Policy on the Use of Electronic Communication Devices
Laptops and tablets may be used in class for course-related purposes and only if their use is not distracting others or negatively impacting the learning environment. The use of smartphones is not permitted in class—they must be silenced and placed in your bag during class, except for during breaks. Failure to adhere to this rule will result in a participation grade deduction and you may be asked to leave. Note that the use of electronic devices for audio or video recording or transmission is strictly prohibited in class as well as in office hours.

If distraction due to electronic devices is impeding class participation, a policy prohibiting the use of all electronic devices may be introduced. Therefore, it’s in your best interest to ensure that you are using electronic devices exclusively for class work.

A Note on Email Communication
When emailing me about the course, please include the course code (COMS 591) in your subject line. Please do not use email to ask questions that can be answered by looking at the course outline or D2L. I aim to answer emails within 48 hours of receiving them, excluding weekends—if you have emailed me and have not heard back within this timeframe, please feel free to send a follow-up message.

Assignments and Evaluation
Your grade in this course will be determined based on the following:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Weight</th>
<th>Assignment</th>
<th>Due</th>
</tr>

Starting during the second week of classes, you will be asked to write brief weekly responses to the assigned readings and post them on our class’s D2L Discussion Board. These responses must be posted no later than 3:30pm on Wednesdays (24 hours before the start of class). Responses should be at least 150 words long, and should demonstrate critical engagement with the readings assigned that week. You can do this in any of the following ways:

- Reflect on whatever aspect(s) of the assigned readings you found most interesting, compelling, problematic or perplexing, and demonstrate that you have thought critically about what you’ve read.
- Pose one or more questions that you had as you read, or present questions about the readings that you think might spur interesting class discussion.
- Apply the readings to one or more specific images or visual culture examples. If you do discuss specific images, please include them with your post.

Weekly participation is expected, but in recognition of the fact that life happens, you have two “mulligans”—two opportunities to miss a post, on the weeks of your choosing. In addition, you won’t be required to write a post during reading week or during the final week of class.

Image Studies

You will be required to write one image study. With this writing assignment, you will choose one or more images and offer a critical analysis of them with reference to course readings and, if you like, class discussions. Image studies will be required to be at least 1000 words in length. Further details on this assignment will be provided early in the semester.

Research Essay, Proposal, and Presentation

Your major assignment for this class will be a final essay of at least 1500 words. Building on your image study and reading responses completed throughout the term, you will craft a well-researched, thoughtfully argued essay that offers critical analysis of one or more images or developments in visual culture, with reference to course readings as well as credible and thoughtfully chosen external sources. In preparation, you will be required to submit a research essay proposal consisting of a minimum-200-word description of your research topic and a list of three peer-reviewed sources beyond the course readings that you intend to incorporate into your paper. In addition, you will be required to offer a brief, engaging presentation of your essay findings on the last day of class. More details on each of these components will be provided well in advance of the essay deadline.

Participation and In-Class Assignments

As this is a small seminar class, regular participation is expected and will be essential not only to your success, but to the experience that each student has in the class. Your participation will be assessed based on the frequency and quality of your contributions to class discussions, your participation in in-class activities and assignments, and a presentation that you will give to the class. (More details on presentations will be provided in the second week of class.) Note that your participation is not assessed based on the frequency of your contributions alone—you are expected to contribute in a way that enhances the discussion, and this means coming to class with the readings completed and in hand, ready to discuss them, and interacting with others in the class in a respectful, productive way. Given the importance of participation, regular attendance is mandatory. More than two unexcused absences will result in a lowered grade in the course.
Registrar-scheduled Final Examination: No

Note: You must complete the following course components in order to pass the course: image study, research essay.
If you miss a required course component, please contact your instructor as soon as possible.

Submission of Assignments
Please include your name and ID number on all assignments. Your image study, research essay proposal, and research essay should be submitted as PDF or Word files using the appropriate D2L Dropbox. (No Pages files, please.) Your reading response posts should be submitted using the D2L Discussion Board. You are responsible for ensuring that your assignments are submitted successfully before the deadline.

Note: It is your responsibility to keep a copy of each submitted assignment and to ensure that you submit the proper version (particularly in courses requiring electronic submission).

Private information related to individual students is treated with the utmost regard by University of Calgary faculty. Student assignments will be accessible only by the authorized course faculty, and personal information is collected in accordance with the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (FOIP) Act. Please note that instructors may use audio or video recorded for lesson capture, assessment of student learning, and self-assessment of teaching practices.

Policy for Late Assignments
Assignments submitted after the deadline may be penalized with the loss of one-third of a letter grade (e.g.: A- to B+) for each day late.

Student Accommodations
Students seeking an accommodation based on disability or medical concerns should contact Student Accessibility Services (SAS); SAS will process the request and issue letters of accommodation to instructors. For information on support services and accommodations for students with disabilities, visit www.ucalgary.ca/access/. Students who require an accommodation based on a protected ground other than disability should communicate this need in writing to their Instructor. The full policy on Student Accommodations is available at http://www.ucalgary.ca/policies/files/policies/student-accommodation-policy.pdf.

Students seeking accommodation for transient illnesses (e.g., the flu) or another legitimate reason should contact their instructors. Whenever possible, students should provide supporting documentation to support their request; however, instructors may not require that a medical note be presented. For the policy on supporting documentation the use of a statutory declaration, see Section M.1 of the University Calendar: https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/m-1.html. Also see FAQs for Students: https://www.ucalgary.ca/registrar/registration/appeals/student-faq

Expectations for Writing
Department policy directs that all written assignments and, to a lesser extent, written exam responses be assessed at least partly on writing skills. Writing skills include not only surface correctness (grammar, punctuation, sentence structure, etc.) but also general clarity and organization and proper documentation of research sources. For further information, please refer to the University of Calgary Calendar section on writing across the curriculum: http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/e-2.html

Grading & Department of Communication, Media and Film Grade Scale
The following table outlines the grade scale percentage equivalents used in the Department of Communication, Media and Film. Final grades are reported as letter grades. For components graded using percentages or numerical scores, those values will be used directly in calculating the final course grade, while for components graded using letter grades, the letter grades will be converted to the midpoint values listed in the final column of the table below in calculating the final course grade.

In this course, numerical grades will be used for all assessments.

Column 5: These percentage equivalents will be used for calculating final grades unless an alternative method of final grade calculation is outlined above.

Plagiarism
Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possibly suspension or expulsion from the university. These requirements apply to all assignments and sources, including those in non-traditional formats such as Web pages or visual media.

You must document not only direct quotations but also paraphrases and ideas where they appear in your text. A reference list at the end is insufficient by itself. In-text citations must be provided, and readers must be able to tell exactly where your words and ideas end and other people's words and ideas begin. Wording taken directly from a source must be enclosed within quotation marks (or, for long quotations, presented in the format prescribed by the documentation style you are using). Paraphrased information must not follow the original wording and sentence structure with only slight word substitutions here and there.

For information on citation and documentation styles (MLA, APA, Chicago, IEEE, etc.), visit the Student Success Centre resource links at https://ucalgary.ca/student-services/student-success/writing-support or the Purdue Online Writing Lab (OWL) Research and Citation Resources at https://owl.purdue.edu/owl/research_and_citation/resources.html
If you need help with your writing or have questions about citing sources, please consult your instructor or visit the Student Success Centre, 3rd floor, Taylor Family Digital Library. Instructor Intellectual Property & Copyright Legislation
Course materials created by the instructor (including course outlines, presentations and posted notes, labs, case studies, assignments and exams) remain the intellectual property of the instructor. These materials may NOT be reproduced, redistributed or copied without the explicit consent of the instructor. The posting of course materials to third party websites such as note-sharing sites without permission is prohibited. Sharing of extracts of these course materials with other students enrolled in the same course section and term may be allowed under fair dealing. Check with the instructor if you have any questions about sharing materials with classmates.

All students are required to read the University of Calgary policy on Acceptable Use of Material Protected by Copyright (www.ucalgary.ca/policies/files/policies/acceptable-use-of-material-protected-by-copyright.pdf) and requirements of the copyright act (https://laws-lois.justice.gc.ca/eng/acts/C-42/index.html) to ensure they are aware of the consequences of unauthorized sharing of course materials (including instructor notes, electronic versions of textbooks etc.). Students who use material protected by copyright in violation of this policy may be disciplined under the Non-Academic Misconduct Policy.

Academic Misconduct
For information on academic misconduct and its consequences, please see the University of Calgary Calendar at http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k.html

Research Ethics
Whenever you perform research with human participants, including surveys, interviews, or observations as part of your university studies, you are responsible for obtaining research ethics approval and for following university research ethics guidelines. In some cases, your instructors may apply for course-based research ethics approval for certain assignments, and in those cases, they must review and approve your research plans and supervise your research. For more information about your research ethics responsibilities, please see https://arts.ucalgary.ca/research/arts-researchers/resources-researchers-and-instructors/ethics

Deferrals of Course Work and Requests for Reappraisal
For university regulations and procedures related to deferrals of exams and course work, requests for reappraisals, and other matters, please see the relevant sections in the University Calendar: https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/academic-regs.html
