Course Description

This course examines the career of Orson Welles and, more broadly, theories of cinematic authorship. Subjects for discussion may include: Welles as an intermedial artist (film, theatre, radio, etc.); the development of Welles's cinematic style; Welles's reputation and influence; Welles as a public figure; Welles as an adaptor of Kafka and Shakespeare; Welles's unrealized projects. It covers from Welles's first feature, Citizen Kane (1941), to his last, F for Fake (1973).

Additional Information

Attendance at lectures, screenings and tutorials, and informed participation are essential components of this course and will help determine your final grade. Students must come to class prepared to discuss the required reading.

Objectives of the Course

Students will learn theories of authorship as they apply to cinema and to the career of Orson Welles in particular.

Textbooks and Readings

The following textbooks are available at the University of Calgary bookstore:

Orson Welles, Shakespeare, and Popular Culture (Michael Anderegg)

Citizen Kane (Laura Mulvey)

Discovering Orson Welles (Jonathan Rosenbaum)

This Is Orson Welles (Orson Welles & Peter Bogdanovich)

Other readings will be made available via Desire2Learn.

WHAT YOU MUST DO EVERY WEEK TO DO WELL IN THE COURSE:

- Read the weekly material assigned.
- Take notes while you read.
- Bring the readings to class, both lecture and discussion, so you can refer back to the readings if needed.

- Always bring your syllabus to class to get a sense of where we are in the evolution of the course.
- Try not to miss any lectures and discussion groups.
- Even if you have seen the scheduled film already, you should watch it again and refresh your memory. “I have seen this film several times,” is not an excuse for not attending class or leaving before the screening.
- Develop the ability to take concise notes that capture the essence of the lecture. I will sometimes include lengthy quotes in my powerpoint slides.
- Go over your notes and reading(s) right after each week’s lecture.

CLASSROOM DECORUM:

- Return to your seat on time after taking a short break after the lecture and before the screening. The short break is usually about 10 minutes, sufficient for going to the washroom or stretching a bit, but not for going to the cafeteria.
- Don’t chat with your friends during classes and screenings. And turn off your cell phone.

Assignments and Evaluation

Please include your name and ID number on all assignments, and be prepared to provide picture ID to pick up assignments or look at final exams in SS 320 after classes have ended. Personal information is collected in accordance with the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (FOIP) Act. For more information, see <http://www.ucalgary.ca/secretariat/privacy>

Note: It is the student's responsibility to keep a copy of each submitted assignment. For courses in which assignments are submitted electronically, it is the student's responsibility to ensure that the correct copy of the assignment is submitted. (Including the version date or version number in your file name may help you avoid submitting the wrong version of your written assignments.)

Policy for Late Assignments

Assignments submitted after the deadline may be penalized with the loss of a grade (e.g.: A- to B+) for each day late.

Students with Disabilities

If you are a student with a disability who may require academic accommodation, it is your responsibility to register with the Student Accessibility Services (220-8237, <http://www.ucalgary.ca/access/>) and discuss your needs with your instructor no later than 14 days after the start of the course.

Plagiarism

Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possibly suspension or expulsion from the university.

You must document not only direct quotations but also paraphrases and ideas where they appear in your text. A reference list at the end is insufficient by itself. In-text citations must be provided, and readers must be able to tell exactly where your words and ideas end and other people's words and ideas begin. Wording taken directly from a source must be enclosed within quotation marks (or, for long quotations, presented in the format prescribed by the documentation style you are using). Paraphrased information must not follow the original wording and sentence structure with only slight word substitutions here and there. These requirements apply to all assignments and sources, including those in non-traditional formats such as Web pages or visual media.

For information on citation and documentation styles (including APA, Chicago, IEEE, MLA, and others), visit the links provided at <http://www.ucalgary.ca/ssc/node/208> . If you have questions about how to document sources, please consult your instructor or the Writing Centre (3rd Floor TFDL, <http://www.ucalgary.ca/ssc/writing-support>).

Academic Misconduct

For information on academic misconduct and its consequences, please see the University of Calgary Calendar at <http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k.html>

Research Ethics

Whenever you perform research with human participants (i.e. surveys, interviews, observation) as part of your university studies, you are responsible for following university research ethics guidelines. Your instructor must review and approve of your research plans and supervise your research. For more information about your research ethics responsibilities, see <http://arts.ucalgary.ca/research/research/research-ethics>
