Students in any of the Bachelor of Arts in Communication and Media Studies, and Bachelor of Arts in Film Studies, Bachelor of Communication and Media Studies, or Bachelor of Film Studies programs who have been accepted into a travel study program are eligible for the Department of Communication, Media and Film Study Abroad Award. The candidate must be, at minimum, in a second year standing in their respective program. Study abroad terms can be arranged independently, or through the Centre for International Students and Study Abroad (CISSA). The travel study experience can be a University of Calgary short-term group study abroad program or a semester abroad program. Broadly speaking, students must be enrolled and studying with a significant time commitment; the experience is not intended as tourism. Up to two scholarships of $1000 per year will be awarded, based on the calibre of the proposed travel study plan.
